Letter From Florida and Cuba.

TAMPA, FLA., Jan. 26, 1899.

Editor Roundabouts:

It has been several years since I wrote a letter for publication, and not having written one for so long, it is with some hesitancy I undertake to do so.

I left Frankfort the evening of January 5th for a trip through the South, principally Florida. I arrived at Jacksonville, Fla., the night of the 6th, at 11 o'clock, by way of the Cincinnati Southern Railway, the train being 2 hours behind time. I spent three days in Jacksonville looking after the interest of Miles & Son, in which State they have had a nice trade in their flour since my first trip, in the winter of 1886.

I went from Jacksonville to Fernandina, at which place I spent one day talking business. From there my first stop was St. Augustine, where I spent two days; next Daytona, two days; next I took train for Miami, the terminus of the East Coast Railway, about 300 miles below Jacksonville, at which point I took steamer for Key West, 165 miles. I staid there three or four days, talked flour and established an agency for its sale. From there I took steamer for Havana, Cuba, in the Aransas, one of the Morgan line vessels, running from New Orleans via Key West.

Havana, being only 90 miles, we lay outside harbor until after 5 o'clock in the morning, no vessel being allowed to go into the harbor until after this time. In going up the harbor I got a chair and sat on the bow of the vessel, so I could see on each side and in every direction. But little passed my notice. The first thing passed was Moro Castle, one of the most noted fortifications in the world. After passing Moro, other forts were passed, almost innumerable, which would take too long to write about. My intention is to only give a sketch of what I saw. The last I will name in the harbor is the wreck of the Maine, a photograph of which I have with me and will be pleased to show my friends when I get home.

By the way, I went to the cemetery in Key West and stood over the graves of twenty-five of the Maine boys who were killed in the explosion. Just here I will also state I stood over the burial place in the cemetery of Havana of two hundred and sixty-five whose lives were lost in this disaster, they being buried in two heaps.

You will remember five years ago next June I left Frankfort and made a trip through nine countries of Europe. I speak of this to show you and the readers of this I am prepared to compare what I saw here with what I saw in those nine countries. Besides these nine countries, I have been in Mexico and Canada. In all I have never seen such squalid wretchedness, poverty in its most abject form.

The vessel was anchored out some distance from the dock and was met by Cubans with little sail boats, which could carry from six to ten persons with their baggage.

The steamer let down a stair or walkway outside the vessel for passengers to walk down to the little sail boats. Only one boat could get passengers in at a time. There was perfect confusion, each one of the Cubans trying to get his share of passengers. I could not understand a word they said. We, that is, the party I was with, made a contract at 25 cents each to put us on the dock. I will have to make my description of things short. On the dock is the custom house, through which we all had to pass, baggage all being opened by Cubans who could not speak a word of English. As we left the custom house door it was full of Cubans to collect something for putting the baggage in the custom house. No difference how much you give them, five or ten cents, they clamor for more. After, and as soon as we left the door, the beggars, big, little, old and young, were holding and poking their hands at us, mostly women and children of all ages. A great many with leprosy, sores on them from the crown of their heads to the soles of their feet. It is not only here this is seen, but all over the city. In front of the large hotels they are more numerous than elsewhere.

It is a regular robbing game from the time you enter the city until you leave, from the beggar to the merchant and hotel keeper. They have no regular or established price for anything. The hotels make it a custom to charge you with things you never got. Every one, without an exception, who showed their receipted hotel bills had a number of items erased which they never got. The hotels are grand structures, but the dirtiest, filthiest holes I was ever in. Every time I moved in bed there would come a scent from under the cover that was almost unbearable. The thought would run through my mind that a number of persons had died in the same bed with yellow fever or small pox.

I could not write one-half I saw and experienced in the three days I spent there. I will tell you and my friends privately when I get home. The place is greatly improved since Gen. Brooke has been in control.

The city, as a city, is one of the grandest built I have seen in all my travels. It is beautifully located and well laid out, with parks and walks and drives. I have photographs of a great many of the buildings, including the old cathedral, which is over one hundred and fifty years old. I think it is equal to old St. Giles, in Edinburg, Scotland, which I thought was the grandest I ever saw. I was in and through the whole building. I must confess I had a feeling some how of reverence. Walked in with my hat in my hand. Through our guide I had quite a talk with an old priest.

I will not be able to tell all, but give only a sketch of anything. Every house is built as a fort, with court entries, windows with iron bars. No windows to residences opened. The Governor's palace is grand. I tried to get in but failed. The Captain on guard told us we would have to get permission from Gen. Brooke. The Captain-General's residence and ground and gardens are superb beyond anything I ever saw. All the palaces and mansions have been robbed. The Spaniards, before they left, took everything of any value. What little was left has been plundered by visitors.

In all of my travels, up and down the world, I have never seen anything that will compare with the cemetery. For beauty of location, for architectural work, expensiveness. All in almost a solid mass, vaults and tombs, and monuments of the most costly. But to cap the climax the worst of all has yet to be told. The papers who die are put in a vault, their bodies covered with lime until the flesh is eaten off the bones. The bones are then taken out and put in a heap. Again, when the rich, or any who do not keep up their tax or rent on their lots for five years, their bodies are taken up and go through the same operation, and their bones are thrown out in the bone pile, of which there is an immense pile. I would not go to see this; could not stand it; was afraid of catching some disease. I saw photographs of this vast pile of skeletons.

They say it is a fact that people go there and tumble the bones around looking for skeletons who have gold in their teeth, and take out the teeth from the jaw bones.

I saw two men, one had the thigh bones of a skeleton, the other had the lower jaw. I cannot tell in one year's writing of all I saw and heard.

We came back to town by way of the west coast. We stopped at General Brooke's headquarters. I did not see him. I was introduced to and shook hands with Gen. Chaffee, who, you will remember, had an active hand in the battles on the Island, being one of our fighting Generals.

The worst is a continuation of forts. I must stop. I have done all this writing at one sitting after supper. I have not looked over it to correct mistakes. Won't you please do it? I am tired, so good night.

Chronic Dyspepsia Cured.

AFTER suffering for nearly thirty years from dyspepsia, Mrs. H. E. Dugdale, wife of a prominent business man of Warsaw, N. Y., writes: "For 26 years, I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and a weak stomach. The lightest food produced distress, causing severe pain and the evacuation of gas. No matter how careful of my diet I suffered agonizing pain after eating. I was treated by many physicians and tried numerous remedies without permanent help. Two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and Nervine. Within a week I commenced improving, and persisting in the treatment I was soon able to eat what I liked, with no evil effects. I keep them at hand and a single dose dispels any old symptoms." Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address: DR. For Governor Watt Hardin has the call in this section.

Occasionally people get a warning to mind their own business and let other people alone. "You see we was all in the barn strippin' tobacco. All seven of us, and I seen the feller ride up to the gate, so, knowin' not there was no one at home, I yelled, 'thar ain't no one thar, come over here.' You see I thought it was a tobacco buyer. W. A Fleshly Consumptive

Did you ever see one? Did you ever hear of one? Most certainly not. Consumption is a disease that invariably causes loss of flesh.

If you are light in weight, even if your cough is only a slight one, you should certainly take

Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil with hypophosphites. No remedy is such a perfect preventive to consumption. Just the moment your throat begins to weaken and you find you are losing flesh, you should begin to take it. And no other remedy has cured so many cases of consumption. Unless you are far advanced with this disease, Scott's Emulsion will hold every inducement to you for a perfect cure.

deputy sheriff, and he gave the whole caboodle of us an invitation to court."

The recent rains and melting snows have done more damage to the roads in this section than a year's travel.

Mr. William Stoop is hauling logs to the sawmill at Frankfort to be made into lumber.

Concerning the alliance with England, that some people seem crazy about, we couldn't get it when it would have been serviceable to us, and now we can easily do without it. Red, as is well known, is the English national color, uniforms, stamps, mail wagon, etc., being a brilliant red, and even the rope line and twine, from the candlewick to the largest ship's hawser, have each got a red stain running through them. (See Joshua 2:18-21.) In case the alliance should come to pass it might be well to show the British what we have done to meet them. We have changed the color of the stamp in general use from green to red; we have named a very fine red rose "American Beauty," and last, but not least, we have whitewashed our State offices. State officials a beautiful brilliant red.

Mr. John Woods and family will shortly move to Hoge's Station.

One of the best poems, illustrating the good feeling prevailing in all sections of our country, appears in the Christmas number of the Youths' Companion, written by Edmund Vance Cooke:

"The Third Ohio doff your caps who love heroic men, The Fifty-fourth Virginia you may give salute again."

Captured in battle, and on their way to prison, the Third Ohio had sunk down, hungry and tired, on the bare ground to sleep when

The Fifty-fourth Virginia had broken up its ranks, And lily sauntered over to inspect the captured 'Yanks."

They were very much disappointed, for, except the color of uniform, "They all are just like we all," so they cooked bacon and pome to give the Yanks some supper.

"And then these gallant Southerners they served this piping hot meal, Saying 'Yanks this all if no banquet, but they sholy all we got.'"

The changing fortune of war flooded a Union camp with captive rebs. As soon as he saw them a Yank ran through the camp

"Yelling boys, old boys, if you've got a high gizzard in ye You've got a chance to show it, now here's the Fifty-fourth Virginia."

"They filled those Johnnies to the brim, they held a jubilee, And looked for nought that could be bought or begged in Tennessee."

Get the poem and read it.

We publish an advertisement of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE in our columns this issue, and wish to say to our patrons that we believe this preparation is worthy of a trial by any person suffering from this agonizing complaint. We honestly believe this preparation will do for you all the manufacturers claim for it.

KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE is prepared by the well known and reliable firm of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, and from our long experience, in a business sense, with this firm as advertisers, we feel safe in saying, that they would not place on the market a preparation for the cure of dyspepsia unless they had a remedy of the highest merit, and conscientiously believed it would cure this well known and almost universal complaint.

We further add that if this preparation is equal to the other well known remedies which they name, viz DeWitt's Little Early Risers, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, and Minute Cough Cure, it will speedily win its way into public favor.

We cheerfully and heartily give our personal endorsement to this concern, and the reliability of the goods they manufacture, which have been largely the means of their success, and in writing this voluntary endorsement on our part, we feel that we are simply performing a duty which we owe to our patrons.

Dr. Keller's Address.

The third address to the Economic Department of the Woman's Club was delivered by Dr. H. S. Keller, Tuesday, 16th.

The doctor first defined "health" as "the harmonious relation of all the organs of the body dependent upon the harmonious relation of the individual cell," and "disease" as the effects produced by any agent or force, physical or mental, that deranges said harmonious action; he referred to the generally, though not universally, accepted creed, that the germ theory "best accounts for disease, particularly infectious and contagious." Germs or bacteria are, since they absorb nourishment through the exterior surfaces of cell walls, vegetative organisms, which morphologically may be grouped into three genera "Bacilli, rod shaped"

"Cocci, spherical," "Spirilla, spiral." Though almost infinitesimal the fertility of the soil, all fermentation and putrefaction is due to their activity. Through their agency inorganic matter is transformed into organic and organic resolves itself into elements.

The pathological or disease producing germs are those which, when introduced under favoring conditions into the system, reproduce themselves and in their growth generate poisons or toxins which act on the vegetable alkaloids. If the conditions are not favorable the disease germ is harmless.

In 1892, during an epidemic of cholera in Hamburg, a New York paper sent to that city a correspondent who nursed the cholera patients, slept in the room with them and drank water containing the cholera spirochete without contracting the disease. His immunity is to be accounted for by perfect health and total absence of fear. Fear is a predisposing cause of cholera, yellow fever and similar diseases."

Any one doubting this last statement of the doctor's has only to consider the physical effects of fear—the disturbance of the normal functions of every organ—unnatural depression or excitation of nerve centers. Yet more important still fear partially or totally paralyzes the will power, which is the greatest safeguard to physical, mental or moral sanity. It is not those who tremble nor who fold their hands and whine who resist other disease or temptation.

"Diathesis" Dr. Keller defined as an inherited tendency to disease. He did not believe that consumption, or other so-called hereditary diseases, were directly transmitted from parent to child, but only a suitable soil or predisposition to the disease. And since this predisposition can be combated and often overcome, the theory should bring encouragement, with a grave sense of responsibility to the parents of children in families where consumption or other so-called hereditary diseases are common.

"To day a child born of a family where rheumatism is a common disease and suffering from recurring sore throat, St. Vitus dance, erythema or inflammation of the heart, must be treated for the rheumatic diathesis, for these are the symptoms of that which is latent."

Dr. Keller next spoke of acquired susceptibility to disease, "which is the result of disobedience to the laws of hygiene. Those who, by the neglect of water, sunlight, pure air and exercise have allowed the pores of the skin to become inactive, the blood poor, the nerves lax, or who have dissipated nerve energy in friction or over excitement are the first and easy victims of disease."

In conclusion, passing beyond mere material conditions, the doctor spoke of the mission of pain to warn, to teach and restrain and the greater mission of pleasure. Quoting from Prof. Huxtholme, he declared "Joy is the sunshine of the soul, and, like all other sunshine, is most powerful antiseptic, a staunch friend of life and deadly enemy of fungi, misanthropy and decay." Yet how few, even among children of the most devoted parents, are as happy as they might be made.

After the lecture, in conversation with the women, Dr. Keller discussed recent experiments in electricity, especially the fact that while 1,700 volts of electricity are fatal, several hundred thousand have been taken with impunity. His own opinion was that "the vibrations at that or an approximate voltage was synchronous with the cell vibration, and therefore caused a disturbance to the system." He also read a letter just received from N. Tesler, in which the great electrician wrote: "I have in my experiments found that the more rapid the vibration of the currents the greater an amount of electrical energy can be passed through the body of a person without injuring the same, and my conclusion has been that the tissues with the cells act as a condenser."

Snow very plentiful in this section.

Bro. Wilson preached his farewell sermon at North Benson Church last Sunday. We hope much good has been attained by his simple and instructive sermons. Bro. Tharp has been called to fill the vacant place of Bro. Wilson, who accepts the call, and will change on meeting to the first Sunday at the usual hour, 11 a. m.

Mr. James Pence has left Benson and moved to Frankfort to reside this year. Mr. Tom Webster will occupy the house Mr. Pence moved from.

We dare say Mr. Jesse Conway feels as though he is a young widower, as his wife is spending the past week with her parents on Pea Ridge.

Mrs. Mildred Sudduth spent Tuesday with her sister-in-law, Mrs. D. Sudduth, on Benson.

Mr. Jim Moore, formerly of Benson, is at present boarding near Bridgeport. There must be something very attractive for Jim's eye, for he would not leave home but, law me, strange things will happen.

Miss Sarah Sudduth entertained in honor of her two cousins, Misses Sidsom and Desdemona Sudduth, Saturday night, January 15th. A large number of young society people attended. She was greatly assisted by the bright and charming Miss Lula Moore.

Many thanks to you Sidney for the kind invitation we received to your dance last Thursday. We will ever remember our old friend.

Miss Desdemona Sudduth spent Saturday night and Sunday with her friend, Miss Nannie Moore.

Mr. Bill Quire called on his best girl Sunday last.

Mr. Leslie Young, who has been very low with typhoid fever, we are glad to report better.

Last Saturday it was my pleasure to visit the city among the hills, and I never dreamed of the many new improvements that greeted my vision. As I passed over the streets I was told that the new and handsome Mayor is responsible for the improvements. If he continues at this good work it will not be long until Frankfort will be an ideal city. All honor and three cheers for the Honorable William Sampson Dehoney, Mayor of the city of Frankfort.

Miss Mattie Conway is the unfortunate sufferer from a bone felon on the left hand. We trust it will soon be better.

We are requested to say to the Louisville Pike correspondent, who is so very kind as to be always making inquiries about the Lily of the Valley, that she is deeply grateful for her sympathy, and will ever bear her in kindly remembrance. Should we ever meet I will gladly receive those handshakes with the utmost respect.

It was my good pleasure, while in the city, to meet my old friend and neighbor, Judge Moore—"Honest Old Dan." He has a rough and plain exterior, but within is a man of heart, with justice toward none, but charity for all. May honest Old Dan continue to preside over the destinies of Franklin county.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is the resulting pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have this remedy for LaGrippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is the most effective of that dangerous disease. It will cure LaGrippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by J. W. Gayle.

Good Sales of Tobacco.

The following clipping, which we take from the Courier-Journal, shows that Franklin county tobacco sells well:

This was shown in a sale of Franklin county tobacco at the Pickett Warehouse, where the record price of $17.25 was received for one hoghead, and a number of other sales were made as high as $17.25. The $17.25 hoghead belonged to the crop of Walker Quire, whose five hogheads sold as follows: $17.25, $14.50, $12.50, $8.50, $6.00. The price for leaf, lugs and trash was $11.55, which is the best yet reported. At the same sale Tracy & Cook got $14.50 for one hoghead, and William Woodward, R. H. Bryant and W. M. Moore each received $14 for the best hogheads in their crops. All this tobacco was from Franklin county and was of excellent quality.

Rubber and Rubber-Trees.

An English artist discovered, in 1770, that the new gum was admirably adapted for rubbing out pencil marks. He wrote a paper on the subject, and informed his contemporaries that a cubic inch of this substance, costing only 3s., would last for years. It was used for no other purpose in England than for erasing pencil marks for about half a century after this discovery, hence the name "rubber." After the introduction of the raw material and the scientific description of the plant by Frenchmen, it was first manufactured into waterproof clothing in France towards the end of the 18th century. Later on, the firm of MacIntosh, of Manchester, manufactured into waterproofs on a large scale; hence the name macintosh for waterproof coats. The raw material was formerly exported in shape of shoes and bottles.

The knowledge of the properties of the latex of rubber trees goes back several centuries among the natives of Central and South America, according to the Spanish explorers; it is even asserted that the natives made of the dried juice. The first introduction among us of shoes, which were of light color and very rigid in cold weather, is within the memory of old persons now living. It was not until 1843 that Goodyear discovered the process of "vulcanizing" the material, that is, of mixing sulphur with it under heat, whereby it becomes permanently elastic and dark in color.

The best rubber is known as Para rubber from South America, and is the product of the "hevea" tree, which is not coniferous, and resembles many other forest trees. People have traveled for thousands of miles through the dense jungles and have lived for years in the center of the industry without noticing it. The new comer invariably expects to see the familiar glossy dark-green leaves of the "Rubber" (a rubber-producing species of the fig genus, common as a house plant), and is disappointed with the insignificant appearance of the "hevea." In appearance it is more like the English "ash" than anything else. It grows to a height of upwards of 80 feet. The leaves are trifoliate. The blossoming season is in August.

There are many varieties of elastic gums, produced in all tropical parts of the world, which are chemically allied, but obtained from many varieties of several orders of plants, and used for different purposes in commerce. The gums are commonly divided into two classes, namely, India-rubber and gutta-percha. The principal commercial difference is that India-rubber is elastic, whereas gutta-percha becomes hard and inelastic when kept in a cool temperature. For this reason the latter is used for the insulation of submarine cables.—Popular Science News.

The little amounts from each make the large amount to us.

Badly Buncoed.

We have endeavored to make the ROUNDABOUT the people's paper, have always been willing to give space to any one to express their views upon almost every subject, and have been more than happy to have the ladies, God bless them, to contribute to our columns, but when one person comes in with an article, leaving the impression of authorship, and the next thing we hear of it another party—who, for spiteful remarks and general censorship, has gained the reputation of a common scold—is claiming to have written it, and is saying all manner of mean things about the paper, its editor and every one connected with the establishment, because the unfortunate compositor was unable to make good English out of manuscript which he was compelled to stand on his head to read, and which made the proof reader cross-eyed when he tackled it, then we begin to think we have been presented with a large-sized gold brick, and our tender feelings have been assassinated in the house of supposed friends.

Deaths of Jas. R. Watson, Esq.

The sad news reached this city on Sunday, that Mr. James R. Watson, of Louisville, had died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jno. B. Tilford, on Sunday morning, aged 81 years. Mr. Watson was born and reared in this city and made it his home for over sixty years, removing to Louisville after his sons had gone there and established themselves in business.

Mr. Watson was a printer by trade, having learned the art preservative, when a young man, in the office of the late Col. A. G. Hodges.

Afterwards he was appointed Assistant Auditor of State, and filled that position for some twenty years with fidelity and accuracy. After the close of his term as Assistant Auditor, he became proprietor of several hotels in this city and made quite a reputation as a caterer to the public. Later in life, having met with reverses, he returned to his first love, and was a compositor at the Frankfort Post in this city, and the Evening Post, in Louisville, so continuing until a few years ago, when the infirmities of age forced his retirement. Since then he and his aged wife resided with their daughter, Mrs. Tilford, enjoying a well-earned rest, and a happy old age.

He retired Saturday night feeling as well as usual, but about 3 o'clock Sunday morning he was heard to gasp, and, when approached, was dead.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and had been for many years.

He leaves his wife (82 years old) and eight children—five sons and three daughters—to mourn his death.

He was a genial and companionable gentleman and was fond of the society of the young, with whom he was ever a favorite, rewarding their affection with many anecdotes of the olden time.

His funeral took place on Tuesday last, in Louisville, and the remains were interred at Cave Hill Cemetery.

Appointments.

Gov. Bradley has appointed Lieut. Col. M. B. Belknap Colonel of the First Kentucky Infantry to succeed Gen. John B. Casteleman. The Governor also appointed Major D. W. Gray to be Lieut. Colonel and Capt. R. S. Carr to be Major of that regiment. These appointments were promotions in regular line.

Colored Barber Dead.

Henry Thornton, the colored barber, who had his shop in the basement of the Capital Hotel, went to Louisville last week to have an operation performed for distula. The operation was performed but his system was so reduced that he could not rally from the shock and he died on Sunday in that city.

Resigned.

Col. B. A. Estle, of Nashville, Tenn., who has been editing the Louisville Dispatch, the free silver organ of Louisville, has resigned. He says that the paper is about to fall a victim to the octopus of the corporations, chief among which is the L. & N. railroad. Since when has this awful (?) thing happened.

Promenade Concert.

On Monday evening next, February 6th, a promenade concert will be given in the ball room of the Capital Hotel. The entertainment will be under the management of ladies whose taste insures success and will be a delightful occasion. The price of admission will be but 25 cents, and you do not want to miss so charming an affair. The proceeds will be devoted to the Mary R. Williams Orphanage.

These are dangerous times for the health. Croup, colds and throat troubles lead to Consumption. A bottle of One Minute Cough Cure used at the right time will preserve life, health and a large amount of money. Pleasant to take; children like it. Tyler & Hemphill and W. McKee Hardie.

Interesting Letter.

In this issue we give a letter from our old friend and long time correspondent, Mr. John E. Miles, which gives an account of what he saw and heard on his trip to Florida and Cuba.

Our readers will remember that Mr. Miles, some years ago, made several long journeys from home, and wrote very entertainingly of his experiences.

We think they will find his present letter equally so. We have another letter from him, received at the same time, but which was written four days later.

We regret that our space forbids its publication this week.

Look Sharp.

Small-pox has broken out in Mayville, Nicholasville, Louisville and other points, and all the other towns and cities of the State are taking steps to prevent its introduction into their borders.

It would be very well for our city authorities to take steps looking to the protection of our city from this loathsome scourge.

Something to be Thankful For.

Mr. W. H. Lyons, the statesman(?) from Campbell county, (who started his mouth to going and went off and left it), has been appointed to a clerkship in the War Department. That is something for which Kentucky is truly grateful to the Secretary.

Remember that the first talk of the "Loyalty" series will be given by Rev. M. B. Adams tomorrow (Sunday) at 3:30 p. m. His address will have an important bearing on all that follow. Don't miss it.

A stirring address on "Fidelity" as illustrated in the life of the prophet Daniel at Babylon, was given before the young men by Rev. T. F. Tallafiero, last Sunday afternoon, and formed a fitting introduction to the "Loyalty" talks which are to be given this month and next.

The 18th annual State Conventions of the Kentucky Young Men's Christian Associations will be held at Henderson, February 16-18th. Frankfort ought to be represented with a good sized delegation. The local Secretary will be glad to give information concerning the program. Special transportation, rates, etc., to any interested young men.

During February and March a special series of "Loyalty" talks will be given by pastors and laymen in the association rooms on Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. The following excellent program has been arranged:

March 19. Loyalty to Manhood.—Dr. J. A. Stucky, of Lexington.

March 26. Loyalty to Conscience.—Rev. Geo. Darnie.

These addresses will be short and informal, and good music will also be an attractive feature of each meeting.

Doubtful.

Very few men have seen the inside of a Masonic Lodge when it is at work, but the Paris Kentuckian tells of one who did. It says: "Tuesday is the regular meeting night of the A. O. U. W.'s, and W. G. Swearingen, who had only attended two meetings of his lodge since his initiation, concluded to attend on the 27th. At 7 o'clock he was on hand, and a few minutes after the Lodge was called to order. He noticed that the brothers all put on white aprons and he put on one too. He didn't remember ever seeing this done in this lodge before, but as he had not attended for some time concluded that it was something new. The lodge was declared open for business, and when the presiding officer asked Bro. Wallace Mitchell if all present were entitled to remain, he said they were. Business proceeded, the election of officers took place, Bro. Swearingen voted and the meeting finally adjourned. Walking down street Bro. Swearingen met Bro. Wm. Schrote and told him about attending a meeting of the Workmen. Bro. Schrote said he was mistaken, that there had been no meeting of that Lodge. Bro. Swearingen was willing to back up his words with a $2 bet, which was readily accepted, and when Bro. Schrote told Bro. Swearingen that the Workmen had given up the lodge room for the night to the Masons on account of its being St. John's Day, Bro. Swearingen was shocked, and was willing to bet that he was the only one at that ever attended a Masonic meeting before he had been initiated."

GRAY—At the residence of his uncle, Judge W. H. Sneed, on yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, Mr. Carleton Saffell Gray, oldest son of Mr. John T. Gray, aged 37 years.

Mr. Gray was a popular and bright young man. He had made his home in Chicago, Ill., and was in the insurance business, when attacked by that insidious disease, consumption. Some ten days since his father brought him to this city, and all that loving care could do to make him comfortable was done.

He was a nephew of Messrs. W. M. & J. M. Saffell and Mrs. W. H. Sneed.

His sister, Miss Fannie S. Gray, is a teacher at the Institute for Feeble-minded children.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. J. McCluskey Blayney, after which the remains will be placed in the family lot in our cemetery.

Cantata—Jephthah and His Daughter.

"The beautiful dramatic cantata, 'Jephthah and His Daughter,'" which is to be given under the direction of Mr. E. R. Clark, at the Opera House next Wednesday evening, February 8th, has a historical setting back in the ancient days when the children of Israel were at war with the Ammonites over disputed territory. Jephthah had been expelled from his father's house, but, being a man of valor and a mighty warrior, was much sought after by the elders of Gilead to take the generalship of the armies of Israel and lead them in battle against the Ammonites.

After accepting this honored position Jephthah makes a vow unto the Lord that he will sacrifice whatever he first meets at the door of his house if he should win the victory over the Ammonites. On his return home, after conquering the Ammonites, his daughter, Iphigenia, falls a victim to a father's rash vow. The cantata strikingly sets forth the Spartan heroism of Jephthah and the fidelity and willing submission of Iphigenia to her father's vow. A complete history may be found in the book of Judges, eleventh chapter.

Between forty and fifty prominent Frankfurt ladies and gentlemen will take part, and elaborate costumes, furnished by Fritz Schultze & Co., are to be used. Following is the cast:

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on J. W. Clary, Druggist, and get a trial bottle. Regular size 50c, and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, Publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Eldon, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe. Pleasant to take, quick to act." Tyler & Hemphill and W. McKee Hardie.

Good News.

Owing to the pressure of business in this city, Dr. Goldstein will remain a few days longer to complete his engagements.

In the meantime any one whose eyes are defective, or whose glasses need readjusting, would do well to call upon the doctor at his rooms at the Capital Hotel.

Dr. Goldstein is a regular graduate and practicing physician, as well as practical optician. He has made this matter a life study and is thoroughly competent to attend to any case submitted to him.

LaGrippe Is Contagious.

Atmosphere Impregnated With Germs.

Disease Prevails Beyond Question to be Inevitably Rapidly Conquering the Country.

LaGrippe is a contagious disease. Its specific germ has been positively identified, and it is transmitted from person to person either by direct contact or by inhaling the germs while they float in the air. It is a dangerous disease, lowering the vitality and wasting the resistive power so that pneumonia, heart disease, nervous prostration and insanity find easy victims. No specific is known that will kill the Grip germ, but it may be driven out and its effects overcome by the prompt use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve.

"La Grippe left my nervous system so racked and shattered that I could not sleep and for two months was under the influence of narcotics. Physicians and friends gave me up to die; but in two days after I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve I began to improve and in a month's time I was entirely cured. It is the greatest health restorer on earth."

D. W. Hilton, Louisville, Ky. All druggists are authorized to sell Dr. Miles' Nerve on a guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded. Be sure and get Dr. Miles' Nerve. Booklet on heart and nerves sent free. Address Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
